title of project/ idea of project	Training for low educated groups for the beginning of the working-market and for employees in manufacturing-productions and service-sectors.
professions and themes	On the basement of lifelong learning we introduce an innovative method that low educated groups learn their potentials in social and professionell competence. Important is the beginning in the working-market for pupils from 16 and employes in the production and service sectors with low qualification. We work together with pedagogical and scientific colleagues in schools, in the human relation departements, trainers and scientific people interested in innovative methods. With them these groups have more motivation and lasting and effective in learning and working.
